

The InTerAct consortium invites Students, Industries and Academia to participate in the symposium:

Enhancing the Innovation Capacity of Seafood Business

- The Role of Higher Education?

31st January 2014, 10h-13h

Technical University of Denmark
Anker Engelunds Vej 1
Building 101A, Room S01
2800 Kgs. Lyngby

Free registration: carba@food.dtu.dk

AGENDA

Moderator: Caroline P Baron

10:00-10:20	Introduction to the InTerAct Project	Guðrún Ólafsdóttir, University of Iceland
10:20-10:40	Diversity in the Nordic Seafood Industry	Marco Frederiksen, Eurofish
10:40- 11-15	What is the Image of the Seafood Industry in the Nordic countries?	Guðbjörg A Jonsdóttir, University of Iceland
11:30-11:50	Bridging the gap? AQFood Master Programme	Caroline P. Baron, DTU
11:15-11:30	A New Story - AQFood Identity and Image Film	Hans Peter Kirkegaard, Umamo A/S
11:50-12:15	Jobs opportunities in the Aquatic Food Sector	Nikoline Ziemer Royal Greenland A/S
12:15-13:00	DTU Student survey iPad lottery winner
13:00	Light Lunch

The main goal of the InTerAct project (Industry Academia Interaction in the Marine Sector) is to establish interaction between the marine sector and universities to address the higher educational needs of the aquatic food value chain. The long term objective is to enhance the innovation capacity of the marine sector. InTerAct is funded by Nordic Innovation in collaboration with the AQFood Aquatic Food Production – Safety and Quality, an international double degree master program of five leading Nordic universities.

Technical University of Denmark

UNIVERSITY OF ICELAND

NTNU – Trondheim
Norwegian University of Science and Technology

UMANO

Eurofish
INTERNATIONAL ORGANISATION

norden

Nordic Innovation Centre